As the eyes of servants look unto the band of their masters, so our eyes wait upon the Lord our God. Ps. cxliii. 2. If the Lord Jesus is really to preside as Head at the meetings of His people, it will require trustful waiting on Him with an attentive mind to perceive His will. Only thus can the beautiful harmony of service occur, which results when He does have the direction. Sanctification Of The Body. --In the Times of Refreshing, S. Schaffer urges that while much has been said of the sanctification of the soul, little has been said touching that of the body. He would have the Christian control the outward senses as avenues to the soul, keep under his body, his appetites and passions, so that he may rise up rigorously to become a partaker of the Divine nature. He tells of a Christian of whom one said, Whenever I have come in contact with that man, I have never heard a useless or improper word, or witnessed a light or careless act, and although he has intercourse with men of all classes, his consistency and self-control are of a piece among U. A healthful brain, with responding sensibility, he thinks, constitutes an organism through which the Holy Ghost may communicate his illumination and diffuse the joys of His presence.
