Brand New Book  Print on Demand .The Professor of Credit Management and MSc Finance, Programme Leader at Plymouth University, and Programme Leader for the Singapore Accounting Academy (SAA), has read and recommends Credit Risk Management - The Novel . She wrote to advise her decision as follows: I have recommended your book to a few libraries and added it to my recommended reading list. Managing customer and supplier risk in a real business (one that supplies real products and/or services) is an exciting and challenging career opportunity. However reading about the related subjects in text books can prove to be dull. You are invited to listen in to their conversations and read the outline of the solutions they employ. The detail of their solutions appears at the end of the book so reading the detail is optional. There is a parallel story that follows the adventures of James E Cricket an Agent of the Office of Peace, which provides an undercurrent of twists and turns. Credit Risk pervades every level of business, so as a business student or graduate there is no better way to supplement your...
